ANNOUNCEMENTS

UNESCO has a new policy guide on Education about the Holocaust and preventing genocide. Produced in consultation with a wide range of experts and institutions, including the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum, the publication is intended to serve as a resource for policy-makers, curriculum developers, textbooks writers and publishers, and teacher educators. It suggests key learning objectives for education about the Holocaust, as well as topics and activities aligned with educational frameworks relevant to Global Citizenship Education, a priority of the 2030 Education Agenda. It also provides policy-makers with rationales to teach about the Holocaust, and more broadly the history of genocides and mass atrocities, in a variety of contexts. The policy guide identifies key areas of implementation: curricula, textbooks, professional development, classroom practices, cooperation with museums, memorials and the civil society, adult education, and commemorative activities. It has links to various historical and educational resources. <http://unesdoc.unesco.org/images/0024/002480/248071e.pdf>

FYI... On Monday, April 3, 2017, Portugal's President Marcelo Rebelo de Sousa bestowed a posthumous decoration on Aristides de Sousa Mendes: the Grand Cross of the Order of Liberty. Receiving it in front of the Sousa Mendes family home in Portugal was Gerald Mendes, grandson of Aristides de Sousa Mendes. "This is a very special honor," remarked President Rebelo de Sousa, "given at a time when the tragedies of new wars and persecutions bring painful images of rootless people looking for a land of freedom, in what is today the worst refugee crisis since the Second World War." With each new honor comes justice for a man who saved so many lives and was so harshly punished. At a time when the world needs heroes, Aristides de Sousa Mendes is now achieving a level of public appreciation that matches his place in history. For more information click here.
